HONGKONG, APRIL 2ND, 1913.

THE news from Washington that a representative of the important American banking firm of Hollins & Co. has informed President Wilson that an American syndicate is ready to furnish China with the $25,000,000 she requires on the basis of "the new loan policy" will doubtless be received with great satisfaction in Chinese official circles in Peking and in the Provinces as well. But it is much too early to say that this will make for the disappearance of what we must now call the Quintuple Syndicate. By the term "new loan policy" we assume is meant the policy recently enunciated by President Wilson—a policy which disapproves of loan conditions which "seem to touch very nearly the administrative independence of China," and which disapproves of American bankers undertaking a loan which "might lead to forcible interference in the financial or even the political affairs of China." On reading the latest news from Washington it will instantly occur to the reader to ask: What is to be the security for this loan? It will be remembered that President Wilson a fortnight ago said he "objects to the perpetuation of certain antiquated taxes as pledge for the security of the loan." We pointed out at the time that this could only refer to the pledging of the Salt Gabelle, practically the only security China has to offer except territorial concessions. A Chinese paper published in Peking, we notice, has described the allusion to the Salt Tax in President Wilson's statement as a "quixotic touch," adding that the President is labouring under an "obvious misapprehension" as to the nature of the security, "which, though antiquated, is the best that China can offer at the moment." Quite so; and it will be time enough to talk of the dissolution of the international group when we learn definitely what other security will be offered to the new American syndicate and whether it meets with their approval. The simple assurance that the United States Government "will continue its new loan policy" does not seem very satisfactory security for a large loan to a country which the investing public of America can know extremely little about, for that policy seems to be purely negative. It means that the lenders of money must rely entirely upon the good faith and honesty of the Chinese Government, and it definitely deprives them of any hope that the American Government will intervene to protect the interests of bondholders, in any effective manner, in the event of default by China in fulfilling the conditions as to the payment of interest and instalments of principal. It is difficult to see what prospect there is of such a loan going through unless the new syndicate is prepared to accept the security offered by China to the Sextuple Group without the safeguards which the Consortium (including the original American syndicate) considered to be absolutely essential. Can we imagine any combination of financial magnates, in any country of the world, being so magnificently philanthropic as to lead such a huge sum of money to a country such as China, whose administration is so chaotic and whose future is so uncertain, simply on the good faith of a Government which has yet to prove that its authority over the country is effective? It is plainly apparent that President Wilson's pronouncement, with its "quixotic touches," was made without adequate knowledge of the existing circumstances in China, and the same remark would appear to apply to the new financial syndicate, who have announced their readiness to lend China twenty-five millions sterling on receiving from the American executive an assurance that their new loan policy—an absolutely negative policy—will be maintained. Surely, in the circumstances, nothing more quixotic can be found in the annals of high finance. If the Chinese Government relies in simple faith on these professions of exalted benevolence we are persuaded that it will be so much the worse for China. Their hollowness is apparent to everyone who has studied the situation, and since they can only serve to delay still longer the day when foreign capital will be available for China, it seems to us that the American Government is incurring a heavy responsibility towards China by practically encouraging her to believe that she can get the money she needs on her own terms. China is certain to discover that this is a delusion, and that in the end the money will be forthcoming—whatever the source—only upon conditions not differing in any material respect from those formulated by the Consortium. A careful study of the outlook can lead to no other conclusion than that loans made without such safeguards are certain, in the long run, to prove fatal to the integrity of China, while we are convinced that a loan with the safeguards demanded by the international group would lead to increasing stability, and to such great and permanent reforms in China's internal administration as would set her firmly on the path of progress and win her a more exalted position among the nations of the world than she now enjoys.

A fine of $500 was imposed by Mr. Melbourne yesterday upon a Chinese for being in possession of a quantity of opium on the Sui An.

H.M.S. Royal Arthur arrived yesterday with relief crews for the Whiting, Otter, Virago, and Taku and half crews for the Tamar, Fame and river gunboats.

A Chinese boy, 14 years of age, in running across the street on Monday, dashed into a ricksha and received injuries to his face. He was sent to hospital.

A fisherman has reported to the police at Aberdeen that an unknown steamer proceeding to Hongkong collided with his junk near Futaimun, causing damage to the extent of $300.

The Kowloon Cricket Club annual tennis tournament will commence on or about the 15th April, and we are asked to mention that entries for the various events will close on the 10th inst.

Two men appeared before Mr. Melbourne at the Magistracy yesterday charged with being in possession of a quantity of opium, which they had concealed between a partition and the side of the steamer Paul Beau. The first man was discharged, and the second was fined $1,000, or in default six months.

Professor A. H. Sayce, of Oxford University, who is on a tour, arrived in Shanghai last week, and was entertained at a reception by the Council of the local branch of the Royal Asiatic Society.

Mr. George Lewis, Secretary and Steward of the Singapore Club, died with tragic suddenness last week. Mr. Lewis, who was 38 years of age, had been in indifferent health for some little time.

What is described as the first action for breach of promise of marriage ever brought in Japan is now occupying the Tokyo District Court. A lady 43 years of age is suing a doctor for 15,000 yen damages.

Wu Ching-lien, President of the Advisory Council, a member of the Kung-ho-tang, and Tang Shao-yl, the ex-Premier, a member of the Kuo-Ming-tang, are mentioned by the Peking officials as candidates for the Premiership.

The death is announced of Mr. Otto Anz, for many years a much respected resident of Chefoo, and the founder of the firm which still bears his name, Messrs. Anz & Co., which was established by him in 1880. Mr. Anz, who died in Germany, was 73 years old.

The Banque Sino-Belge is about to increase its capital from £15,000,000 to £30,000,000. It is also the intention to alter the title of the bank, since its operations have been greatly widened of late by the opening of offices in London, Egypt, and elsewhere. Furthermore, it has been arranged that it shall become affiliated with the Societe Generale de Belgique, which is one of the strongest banking institutions in Belgium, as, with a paid-up share capital of £52,804,000, it has reserves exceeding £65,000,000.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen returned to Shanghai last week from Japan and was cordially welcomed by the Chinese population. Dr. Sun Yat-sen has requested Reuter's Agency to deny that he made the statement attributed to him in their telegram from Tokyo of March 18, saying that, in a statement to the Press at Moji. Dr. Sun said he "was determined to finance Chinese railways by means of domestic loans only, and advocated the reclamation of rights for railway construction and control which had been granted to foreigners in various treaties."

UNLAWFUL ENTERPRISE.

Another instance of the ingenuity of the Chinese was related before Mr. Melbourne yesterday at the Magistracy when a man was found guilty of obtaining money by false pretences and also of having disobeyed a banishment order. His method was very clever. He had obtained a book which is in use on the Kowloon-Canton Railway, and representing himself as a forestry officer issued false permits to people to cut down pine trees belonging to the Government for a length of ten miles on the Tai-po Road. Had the scheme proved thoroughly successful he would have netted $900, but the police finding people cutting the trees made inquiries with the result that the fraud was exposed. For the false pretence defendant was sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment and for returning from banishment six months' imprisonment.

ACCIDENT AT PEAK TRAMWAY STATION.

On Monday afternoon an accident, of an unusual nature, happily—though it is not the first of the kind—took place at the lower Peak Tramway Station. A party of French visitors were about to make the journey to the Peak, but the car was under way before one member of the party got on board. He dashed after the car, and got upon the footboard, as the car was crossing the nullah, but he was dislodged apparently by a sudden jerk of the car, and fell into the wide granite-faced nullah. He received serious injuries to his head, and was removed to the hospital. The name of the victim is Reune Galland, and he is 36 years of age. It is a wonder that there are not many more such accidents. About a year ago some large boulders were placed almost at the edge of the nullah to prevent venturesome persons falling in when running to catch the car; but these do not make an effective protection. What would serve the purpose better is an iron railing midway between the station building and the nullah.

LONDON, April 1st.

A message from Friedrichshafen states that the Prince of Wales is visiting Count Zeppelin. His Royal Highness intended making a trip in the new Zeppelin, but the weather turned squally and the idea was therefore abandoned. He watched Count Zeppelin make a number of evolutions in the neighbourhood of the shed. Afterwards the Prince inspected the workshops and also the Manzell hydro-aeroplane works.

THE DEAD FIELD-MARSHAL.

VISCOUNT WOLSELEY'S IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL.

LONDON, April 1st.

The funeral of Field-Marshal Viscount Wolseley took place on Monday in a dense yellow fog which hung over the city like the gloom of night. The military procession from the War Office to St. Paul's Cathedral passed through troop-lined streets in which stood vast crowds of spectators. The huge congregation which had assembled in the Cathedral was most representative. H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught represented His Majesty the King, and General Probyn represented Queen Alexandra, while the Duke of Teck and other members of the Royal Family were present. Colonel Seely, Under-Secretary of State for War, other Cabinet Ministers, members of the Houses of Parliament, diplomats, and the most prominent representatives of the Army and Navy attended. The beautiful service in the Cathedral was concluded by the singing of the hymn "Nearer my God to Thee," followed by the Dead March in Saul. Then the buglers sounded the Last Post, and the artillery salute was fired from St. James' Park.

DEATH OF MR. PIERPONT MORGAN.

LONDON, April 1st.

A message from Rome reports the death of Mr. John Pierpont Morgan.

Mr. Pierpont Morgan's death was the result of a nervous breakdown. His mind and digestion were affected on Easter Sunday, and this ended in delirium. He was unable to eat since Friday.

The Italian papers point out that he was the richest man in the world, but he died practically of starvation.

[The deceased American millionaire was born at Hartford, Conn., and after being educated at the English High School in Boston and at Gottingen, entered the Bank of Duncan Sherman & Co. in 1857. He became American agent in London of G. Peabody & Co. in 1860, and was afterwards identified with a number of important undertakings. Mr. Pierpont Morgan has been prominent in the largest re-organisation of railroads and other enterprises within recent years, and his large financial interests extended in many directions.]

BRITISH NAVAL ESTIMATES.

LONDON, April 1st.

The House of Commons on Monday resumed the debate on the Naval Estimates.

Mr. Churchill said that if the naval holiday which he suggested in his speech last week were accepted by the Powers the resulting balance would be detrimental to Britain. It would be possible if necessary to commence in 1913 four of the five capital ships in addition to the annual five and the Malaya, making a total of ten. Eleven could be completed in from twenty-four to thirty months. There would be no difficulty in manning the ships nor about the money. It would be unnecessary to borrow or impose fresh taxation as the money paid to the reduction of the National Debt in the past three years far exceeded anything that would be required. He hoped it would be understood that there was no difficulty either in the acceleration of our own ships if necessary or in placing the contracts for the three Canadian ships now being discussed by Canada. The first and second fleets could be further strengthened by their ships refitting in winter instead of refitting at various periods. This was to suit the convenience of the Dockyards. He emphatically contradicted the statement of Lord Charles Beresford that the fleet was 20,000 men short. To put an end to such rumours he was prepared to let two members of the Front Opposition Bench nominated by Lord Beresford go into all details, and the figures would be given to the House. Having regard to the responsibilities of the British Empire in the Mediterranean and the Pacific, it was clear that the margin of strength available for the whole world service of the British Empire would not be sufficient after the first quarter of 1916 unless further steps were taken by the Dominions or ourselves, and if new developments in the Pacific or the Mediterranean occurred or the Canadian ships miscarried it would be necessary to review the situation. We could build three ships ourselves, but the fact of Canada coming forward to testify to the enduring life of the British Empire had already produced an impression throughout the world more valuable than Dreadnoughts.

PRINCE KUNG'S ART COLLECTION SOLD IN LONDON.

Messrs. Christie on the 5th and 6th inst. held a sale of the Chinese carvings in jade and other objects of art formed by Prince Kung Fu Wei, of Peking, great-grandson of the famous Emperor Tao Kwang. The sale of 107 lots on the first day produced £2,903 17s. 6d. The second day's sale realised about £3,400.

The finer of the carvings in jade included a white vase and cover, carved with prunus blossom, foliage, and birds in high relief, with loose ring handles, 10 1/2 in. high—105 guineas (Montagu); a pale green vase and cover of oviform shape, carved with dragons on high relief, with four handles, 14 1/2 in. high—160 guineas (Larkin); a dark green Imperial brush-holder, carved with a mountainous landscape and figures, 4 1/2 in. high—145 guineas (Smith); and a circular white bowl and cover, 4 1/2 in. diam—100 guineas (Montagu). Two carved rock-crystal vases and covers, each 1 1/2 in. high, realised 105 guineas and 130 guineas respectively, and were purchased by Messrs. Gooden & Fox. The Chinese objects of art included a pair of large oblong koro and covers, of chocolate enamel, decorated in polychrome on turquoise ground, 3 1/2 in. high, 2 1/2 in. wide, Ming—175 guineas (Huggins).

The most interesting lot in the second day's sale was a complete set of bronze Imperial writing implements, decorated with various archaic ornaments, consisting of nine pieces, dating from the Chou dynasty, and considered in China as one of the chief Imperial treasures; it realised 145 guineas (Spark).

There were also the following carvings in jade—a white vase and cover, with gourd and foliage, 1 1/2 in. high—160 guineas (F. Partridge); a dark green vase and cover, with panels of kylin in relief, 1 1/2 in. high—100 guineas (Gooden & Fox); a circular pale green koro and cover, 9 1/2 in. high—205 guineas (Jewell); and another, dark green, 4 1/2 in. high—100 guineas (Blake). A rock-crystal vase and cover, carved with figures of immortals, etc., 1 1/2 in. high—135 guineas (Huggins).

CHINA'S OVERDUE DEBTS.

PROTEST BY THE POWERS.

The correspondent of the N.-C. Daily News cabled on the 27th ult.:

THE CHINA LOAN.

AN AMERICAN OFFER.

LONDON, April 1st.

A wire from Washington states that a representative of the banking firm of Hollins & Company informed President Woodrow Wilson that an American syndicate was ready to furnish China with a short term loan of $10,000,000 and to negotiate later a longer term loan of $100,000,000 or more. They only asked for an assurance that the United States would continue the new loan policy.

It is stated that the President has expressed himself gratified that American capital was obtainable to help China.

The probable starters and jockeys are: Long Set, Higgs; Eton Boy, Saxby; Mustapha, Clark; Cigar, Whalley; Wrack, Walter Griggs; Grammont, Donoghue; White Star, W. Huxley; Beaurepaire, Foy; Junior, G. Bullock; Berrilldon, Robbins; Uncle Pat, F. Bullock; Lavolt, Herbert; Ask Papa, Cooper; Mordred, Snythe; Sobieski, R. Stokes; Le Touquet, Longhurst; Dunholme, Ringstead; Talana Hill, Beasley; Cathbert, Buckley; Mr. Peepers, Metcalfe; Lesto, E. Huxley; Saucy Vixen, Barber.

THE BANDMANN COMPANY.

The Bandmann Company scored another success last night when they repeated to a crowded house "The Pink Lady," a piece whose fun and humour kept everybody in the best of temper throughout the evening. The topical song by Mr. Rith was the hit of the night. Not only did he refer to the fact that his grandmama did not know that "Kowloon was the capital of France," but that she did not know that "you had to pay three-fifty to see the Bandmann Show."

THE MURDER OF SUNG CHIAO-JEN.

Opinion prevails in Peking official circles that the murder of Sung Chiao-jen was a result of rivalries and jealousies prevailing in his own camp of the Kuo-Ming-tang. Sung Chiao-jen is said to have made many enemies because he warmly recommended the election of Yuan Shih-kai to be President and opposed the candidature of others. The Peking Daily News most emphatically rejects the suspicion expressed at Shanghai to the effect that the North or even the President himself had become implicated in the murder of Sung Chiao-jen. Yuan Shih-kai himself had summoned Sung Chiao-jen to Peking, and had urged him to become a candidate for the post of Premier. It was therefore impossible that a reason was existing for him to make away with a partisan worthy of his confidence, the murder of whom, in case that it should have been caused by him, would, as he must say to himself, lead to incalculable consequences.

President Yuan Shih-kai has contributed $2,000 towards the funeral expenses.

THE ANTI-OPIMUM CRUSADE.

A number of offenders against the Opium Regulations were paraded through the streets of Wuchang last week.

One hundred and fifty soldiers have left Talifu (Yunnan) and gone South for the purpose of destroying all poppy found growing.

FAMINE IN HONAN.

TRAINS PACKED WITH REFUGEES.

Goods and ballast trains on the Peking-Hankow railway are packed with refugees going South. The drought is continuing, and famine prices prevail in the province of Honan.

DISBANDMENT OF TROOPS.

"A PATRIOTIC ACT TO SAVE THE COUNTRY'S FINANCES."

A proclamation by General Li Yuan-hung to disbanded soldiers says:—"The provincial debt is heavy and increasing. So your pay would have to be reduced if you were not disbanded. You are patriotically retiring to save your country's finances. You must all go home. None of you must wear uniform or arms or make sedition. Guilty persons will be heavily punished by martial law, even to death."—Reuter.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES.

AN UGLY PENDANT.

One of the ugliest of the many ugly kinds of jewels now being worn is a pendant in the form of a lace handkerchief, with the four fan-wise, and showing the top bit of lawn at the top, and a good deal of lace border. The whole thing is wonderfully carried out in diamonds, but the effect is very stiff, and the straight lines are ugly and would be very unbecoming to the skin. On the other hand, a most becoming hair ornament consists of a little coronal of diamond stars with a black velvet background. Very becoming also are the new double hair-pins with a hinged horseshoe-shaped head quite covered with diamonds or pearls. These can be arranged at any angle, and in some cases the designs are very novel. An exquisite pendant, too, is that arranged with a central cluster of diamonds and three hanging ornaments of different lengths. A large black pearl is set in the middle, and the two ends enclose respectively a pink and a white pearl. Of exactly the same size and shape, these pearls form a delightful contrast in colour.

JEWELS FOR MOURNING WEAR.

Mourning jewellery is a great speciality in Paris. One sees little bows of black tulle richly encrusted with diamonds, while a dull black receptacle of gun-metal, meant to hang from the end of an oxidised chain, contains a very worldly equipment of powder, puff, rouge, looking-glass, and hair-pins. Neither in an emergency nor in grief does the Frenchwoman forget that the first duty of woman is to look attractive.

FASTENING IN FRONT.

"Ease after toyle," says the old poet enumerating pleasant things. The ease that comes with gowns and bodices that fasten in front is all the more appre-fastened in front is in the more appreciated after the toil and contortions we endure in hooking or buttoning ourselves "down the back." It is good to see in the shops all manner of blouse that lend themselves to this facile way of hooking or buttoning or patent-fastening down the back, it is not invariably successful. However skilful one may become in this gymnastic exercise, there is always one button at least that is inaccessible, more often two or three, and for these it is necessary to ask for assistance. There are independent natures that detest asking a favour of any sort, and to these the agreeable immunity of front fastenings is doubly welcome. In more than one instance, the problem of fastenings down the back has led to the tragedy of sleeping in one gown, a most disagreeable experience. But what could the victim do? She has returned home in the small hours when all the members of her household are asleep. With wildest orest she has her herself doubt, and struggled with movements that she had learned in Swedish exercises to fatigue herself, until, worn out with fatigue, she has been fain to give in and spoil both her night's rest and her gown.

AT THE PLAY.

The becoming high collar, now fast returning to fashion, is seen in Miss Peggy Webbing's successful "Westward Ho!" at the Palladium, and is convincing indeed on the Rose of Devon and the bride of Amyas Leigh. The manner in which this collar forms a telling background for the head and face calculated to make every woman in the audience resolve to have one. It is not the over-wide, over-stiff, spreading ruff collar of Queen Elizabeth, but a modified and simpler shape. It is to be large, worn with evening dress this season, and will be seen on coats for the season. One to be expected to dress this wear the coats and skirts are to be worn the evening as well as with outdoor dress, though of course in very different materials. Coats in rayon, chiffon, and powdered over with diamante, are the top of the fashion at the present moment.

THE REAL WAIST IN SIGHT.

The waistline has now quite reached its normal position, and though Paris holds out for short waists, England leads with the more sensible length. It will be seen when the season proper comes that the real waist will be again in sight. The London shop windows already shadow forth this agreeable change.

WIDER SKIRTS.

The dress of the near future need not necessarily be too tight, judging by Paris fashions of the moment. The new skirts, though not full, are certainly a little, although in the evening the panier form is still worn; and as the modern woman is too vain to have anything bunchy at her hips, the panier is simply made by tightening the skirt round the ankles. This is very ugly, but is a novelty to last. The waist is in its natural place, or neatly, and is marked by a perfectly round band of folded ribbon. A distinct Directorate note is to be seen in collars, revers, cuffs, and frills, and some of the pretty muslin blouses to be worn under spring coats fall open at the throat and are edged with little ruffles in a very becoming manner, reminiscent of Robespierre, and yet somehow quite in harmony with the Marie Antoinette field of plaited lawn over the shoulders. A good instance of the coloured coat found in one made of dark brocade of medium shade, not too dark yet certainly not pale. It is worn over a black clo gown, which almost entirely covers showing merely three inches or so at the waist and only the collar with its supplementary lace at the neck. The coat, on the lines of the well-known Chinese mandarin garment and is not tight anywhere. In the black satin hat is a bit of feather exactly matching the tint of the brocade of which the coat is made. The feather passes quite round the brim of the hat, and curls upward at the left side towards the back.

AT THE ROYAL BALL.

Dress at Buckingham Palace on Monday night, when their Majesties gave ball, was remarkable for its restraint, far as the feminine portion of the four hundred guests was concerned. It is well-known that the Queen disapproves

...and the other is the fact that the system is not yet fully operational.

These words, written by Lady Henry Somerset, will come as a stirring message to all who are in that miserable despairing state of mind which is due to weakened nerves and failing health. Such sufferers should seek at once the helpful, uplifting power of Sanatogen.

Over 16,000 qualified practising physicians have testified in writing to the great benefit which their patients have derived from Sanatogen in Nervous and Digestive Troubles, Brain-lag, Insomnia, Poverty of Blood, and various Wasting Diseases.

Sanaotogen is unique among tonics because it invigorates the whole system—particularly the nerves and brain—temporarily, but permanently, and without any harmful effects. In the words of the well-known physician Dr. Claude L. Wheeler: "Sanaotogen is a food—a highly concentrated and very nutritious food—endowed with special tonic properties. It builds up, fortifies and strengthens the cells of the body, because it is a real cell food."

"The Art of Living" is the title of an interesting book which tells you all about Sanatogen and also contains a great deal of valuable advice on health topics. Write for a Free Copy at once—mentioning this paper—to the manufacturer of Sanatogen, Messrs. A. Wulff & Co., 6, Kiukiang Road, Shanghai, and buy a bottle of Sanatogen to-day—it is so good for you by all Chemists.

of extravagance and eccentricity of any kind, and Her Majesty sets such an excellent example in her own attire that no flagrantly narrow skirts were to be seen, and a similar absence of extremes prevailed with the rest of the dress, and was even noticeable in the character of the hair ornaments.

A SMART SPRING COAT.

The one-button coat is a good type of the comfortable outdoor garment suitable to spring. The lines are simple, and the length is between half and three-quarter. The one button is at the base of the reverse in the middle of the front. Below it the coat curves away with appreciable fullness from the straight-falling skirt in the same material, deep-grey or navy blue. It has a turn-down collar and cuffs to match, and the wide, primitive Smart women are wearing sailor collars of various depths upon their new spring coats. The hood is also seen, but it is small and sewn flatly down upon the garment, and is therefore of no use whatever and hood. Its only use is that of relieving the plainness of the back of a coat. It is even seen in jet upon the jetted coat.

now so much in fashion, but more often is rendered in lace upon these beautiful garments.

OF FOOTWEAR.

Blue shoes with stockings to match are much in vogue among the well-dressed of the moment. They are worn with short tailor suits as well as with the more elaborate "all-in-one" of the afternoon.
At Monte Carlo they are said to be a universal fashion, and there is small doubt that later on they will be equally to the fore at home. Shoes and stockings are so much in evidence with the present style of dress that much thought is devoted to them; also much money.—X,
